
About Helen: Helen Keller was an author, disability rights advocate, political activist and lecturer. She lost her sight and hearing at nineteen months old but learned to read and write in Braille and to use the hand signals of the deaf-mute, which she could understand only by touch. Her unprecedented accomplishments in overcoming her disabilities altered the world's perception of the capacities of the handicapped.

Show us your artwork on Instagram at @piccolina_kids and visit www.piccolinakids.com for more!