Contents

Prologue vii

Chapter 1 Priscilla and Aquila (AD 40) 1
Service to the Christian community enriched their marital and family relationship

Chapter 2 Plutarch and Timoxena (ca. AD 46). 9
A couple's union strengthened over the loss of their children

Chapter 3 Louis IX of France and Marguerite of Provence (1235) 19
A political marriage that became a marriage of love

Chapter 4 Elizabeth of Hungary and Louis of Thuringia (1220) 33
A love that went against the current

Chapter 5 Ferdinand and Isabella (1469) 47
A secret romance led to an alliance of politics and of love

Chapter 6 Thomas More and Jane Colt (1505); Alice Middleton (1511). 60
Happy marriage centers on mutual help

Chapter 7 Queen Victoria and Prince Albert (1838) 80
A woman puts marriage ahead of power

Chapter 8 Nicholas II of Russia and Alexandra Feodorovna (1894) 98
A beautiful and tragic love story

Chapter 9 Pierre Curie and Marie Sklodowska Curie (1895) . . . 118
A shared passion for science helped them to love each other

Chapter 10 G.K. Chesterton and Frances Blogg (1901) 143
They decided to be two in one and succeeded in spite of being very different

Chapter 11 Jacques Maritain and Raïssa Oumançoff (1904) 159
United in their search for the meaning of life, they found faith after they were married

Chapter 12 Antonio Machado and Leonor Izquierdo (1909) 177
A love that overcame age and illness

Chapter 13 Charles of Austria and Zita of Bourbón-Parma (1911) 191
A love unaltered by war and exile

Chapter 14 André Maurois and Jeanne-Marie de Szymkiewicz (1912) . . 211
Love, sickness, and loneliness in wartime

Chapter 15 J.R.R. Tolkien and Edith Bratt (1916) . . . 233
Love for their children helped them stay united to the end

Chapter 16 Fabiola de Mora y Aragón and Baudouin I of Belgium (1960) 248
The happiness of sharing deep religious convictions