Drawing out Communication

This introductory workshop is designed for parents and professionals who are looking for better ways to connect with their language delayed children.

Sunday, JUNE 10, 2012

Montreal

Communication is everything!

When it breaks down, our children express themselves with behaviours such as resistance to talking, meltdowns and even aggression (to name a few).

Drawing regularly with your child can break this pattern by creating a bridge of mutual understanding.

Using case studies and hands-on drawing activities, participants will learn how to interpret the meanings of behaviours, get to their root cause, and address them through easy and fun drawing conversations with your child.
