What's New: Fleabag Bed

Written by: Karlie Borzansky

Designed by Orange County-based interior designers Sabina Vavra and Chelsea Hernandez, Fleabag Beds have added an unexpected touch of style to animal beds. Incorporating modern, bright prints on beds for cats and dogs of assorted sizes, Fleabag Beds are an ideal, eco-friendly accessory for any pet owner.

Vavra and Hernandez decided to launch the line after noting a severe gap in the market for stylish pet products. The pair now have an array of clients, targeting homeowners who are looking for a chic, affordable addition to their home while keeping the comfort of their pets in mind. Not only are the bags poly-filled and washable, they are also reversible. The latest winter 2010 collection features a color infusion of turquoises and tangerines, available in three round and two rectangular sizes.

All of the elements that go into Fleabag Beds, from choosing fabrics to selecting zippers and inserts, are decided upon by Vavra and Hernandez from start to finish. The result is a seamless product, evident of the pair's background in interior design and knowledge of the elements needed to complete and complement a room. Fleabag Beds also use some of the same fabrics as Trina Turk, Windsor Smith, Kelly Wearstler, Missoni and Barbara Barry.

Vavra and Hernandez take eco-friendly manufacturing into consideration as well, using organic cotton and bamboo fabrics whenever possible. Vavra and Hernandez expect their product, which is currently being distributed throughout 15 states, to spread across the nation by the beginning of the new year.
