NEWSLETTER #7, 27/09/2012

Hi everyone,

Various news for you today:

1) An exciting collaboration with Worthy Painting!

We've just begun to work in association with Worthy Painting - an excellent and highly skilled painting team with many major awards under their collective belts!

Over the coming weeks, Worthy Painting will be getting to grips with the best techniques for painting our finely detailed miniatures in order to provide a superb painting service for our gamers. We look forward to working with Worthy Painting to ensure an excellent and consistent standard! They'll be many more details about this in our next newsletter!

Worthy Painting will also be lending an expert hand to the task of supporting Dropzone Commander with video painting guides. They'll be working closely with me to spread the word on how to achieve some great results and some tricks of the trade, tailored to the subtleties and styles of each race. We intend to do an excellent job on these and we won't be rushing them!

2) Downloadable Buildings and Roads now available in US 'Letter' size

It's taken a while to complete, but at last we've finished converting all our A4 sized Downloadable Buildings and Roads to US 'Letter' sized paper. This should make it much easier and cheaper for our American players to get their cities built! They are all free and now available to download from our website.

3) New staff member starting soon!

A new staff member will be joining us at Hawk HQ mid-October. This will allow us to open and run our own forum as well as work on many new and exciting support projects. It will also grant me more time to concentrate on my strengths - design and writing! We'll be introducing our new recruit properly in the next newsletter!

4) Production ramp-up continues apace

Work at the casters is continuing at full speed and we've been making excellent headway at reducing our order backlog. Once we've satisfied all our existing commitments we will be looking to spread Dropzone Commander to new stores, gaming clubs and kitchen/ attic tables everywhere! We'll also be releasing many new products to aid in this planetary invasion! It won't be long now before we can finally put our growing pains behind us.

5) Dave out of the office for a while

I'm going to be away for the next week, but while I'm gone Louis (our publishing, print and web specialist) will be on hand to answer any order related questions and problems you may have. Rules queries etc will have to wait until I'm back though, but I'll be answering them all as soon as possible when I return!

I think that's about it for news for the moment!
