3. Remove wingnuts from the bolts on the front angle of hopper where the hole is.
4. Align the notches in the confetti cone with the bolts on face of hopper.
5. Slide the confetti cone until it is flush with the angle face of the hopper. The cone will now be covering the hole.
6. Use the wingnuts to securely fasten the cone to the front of the confetti hopper.
7. Next, locate the hose with ball valve.
8. Notice one end of the hose has a CGA320 tank adapter (brass color with a fiber washer)
9. Attach the silver end to the valve inlet on the side of the confetti cone base plate.
10. Hand tighten the female fitting on to the male inlet adapter. Once it is tight use a crescent wrench and snug connection tight.
11. Next attach the CGA320 tank adapter to your CO2 tank. Be sure to place the white fiber washer between the adapter and tank to reduce the chance for a leak. Hand tighten as well to reduce the chance of cross threading. Once snug use a wrench and snug the fitting tight.
12. Now make sure the red handle is fixed in the off position on the manual ball valve.
13. To test open the co2 tank and see if gas immediately escapes through the confetti cone.
14. Now you can preload your hopper with confetti.
15. Once your hopper is filled and you are ready to blast, open the CO2 tank all the way.
16. Place the tank directly behind the confetti hopper to reduce the chance of sliding
17. Now you are ready to blast confetti. Turn the red handle and an immediate rush of loud air will exit the confetti cone. You can insert confetti as needed while the machine is still firing.
