Frontier Computing is a complete sales and service provider of assistive technology products for vision loss, learning disabilities, communication aids and physical access. In addition to our ever expanding range of select products, we offer a number of associated services which create independence and life long knowledge for our valued customers. It is the following critical services that allow our customers to realize the potential of the technology as well as their own ability to use it effectively.

Training

Frontier Computing provides training across Canada on a wide variety of assistive technology products. We have hourly rates as well as half day and full day rates. Both group and personal training sessions are available. On-site and remote training is an option. All training packages are customizable based on your individual or group requirements.

Braille Production

Braille It Now is a whole new concept in transcribing and producing English and French braille for organizations, professionals, schools and individuals. The process is simple and the resulting pages and braille volumes are of printing house quality. Get started by visiting www.BrailleItNow.ca or calling us with your request.

JAWS Scripting

JAWS scripting refers to making applications more accessible for those who use JAWS, the world's most popular screen reader. Frontier Computing's highly trained script developers will evaluate your applications and script JAWS to ensure optimal usability. Contact us for more details.
