| Biochar Supreme, LLC looks forward to the prospect of growing our businesses together and we partner with those with the intention of generating new end-use customers. We do not assign exclusive geographies or territories and we review distributorship annually based on conversions each year. We can provide you materials and education on our products and will cross-promote your business as often as possible. We encourage you to work creatively in your distributorship role – in person and online. | | | |
