

When I first thought of the resketch concept – over 5 years ago – I could have never imagined what it would become. Not only the physical sketchbook with its incredible variety of reused stock types, but also the positive response from people around the world. You made this possible, and now – thanks to you – the sky's the limit. Enjoy resketch, draw things, and spread the word!

A new way of sketching

This is far from your average sketchbook. In fact, resketch is meant to turn traditional ideas on sketching and ideation on its head. With its random assortment of paper and stock types found inside, you'll be forced to react to a new surface page after page after page. Not just the usual, boring white paper pages. Better still, we've scattered some amazing Creative Prompts inside to help get your creative juices flowing.

Paper doesn't grow on trees

There's a lot of usable paper in the world, much of which goes to waste. Honestly, that's just stupid. Paper that's basically good to use shouldn't go into a landfill, or even through a well-intentioned recycling process. Instead, let's reuse it. Let's make art with it. Let's give it a newfound purpose. You're helping do that right now, simply by doing what you love. Cool, right?

Most important: We will always need paper. Forever. So if you, someone you know, or a local business, government organization, or, really anyone has a good or great amount of paper, we want to know! Get in touch with me personally, or email paper@resketch.org

Sketch it forward

When you buy a resketch book, you're also helping buy one for someone else*. Sketching it forward, so to speak. Forward to someone in an art class – initially in Chicago, and eventually other places – who doesn't have enough money for the basic things we take for granted, let alone a sketchbook. Together we can spread sketching, drawing and creativity to as many people as possible. Who knows what untapped potential could be unlocked.

Sincerely,
