

Bye-Bye Birdie Twin Testimonial

We had a lot of trouble with sparrows demolishing the foam insulation under our pole house [approx. 3-4m above the ground] even with the netting in place.

I was told about the Bye-Bye Birdie system by a neighbour who has 2 of these; who used to have birds pooping all over everything in their carport, and they told me they were fantastic. So we installed the Twin Bye-Bye Birdie models exactly as recommended [2 pairs, 9m apart, hanging 600mm from ceiling] after they had finished nesting; we didn't want to kill any chicks.

Underneath the pole house was a haven for sparrows

They normally take a while to work but I'm sure the same moment we installed them, they started working! I witnessed them doing "U" turns in the air. Then flying to the nearest tree fern and looking somewhat mystified, then trying it again and obviously totally confused took off not to be seen again.

They are absolutely brilliant, I can't believe how good they are – and I haven't seen any sign of any birds under the house [since we installed it].

BEFORE: damage to the insulation & mess made by the birds under the pole house

NOW: with the two pairs of Bye Bye Birdie Twins installed, there is no sign of birds under the house
