Imagine stepping outside to be greeted by a beautiful summer's day. The sun is shining brightly and the only clouds in the sky are thin white wisps of cotton. What a perfect day to spend out on the water.

As you walk down the dock the warm summer breeze begins to pick up causing a light ripple along the surface of the water.

Unfortunately, as you get closer to your boat, the breeze brings along with it an aroma that causes your breath to catch in your throat and your stomach to churn.

Thankfully there's a solution for this, the Big Orange odour filter.

Big Orange. Enjoy the Fresh Air.

Big Orange is easily installed on the vent line of your holding tank and begins working immediately using activated carbon pellets to remove the odour.

These carbon pellets contain a vast number of tiny holes. So many little holes in fact, that the effective surface area of just one gram of activated carbon is over 500 square meters!

Since these holes are so small, the odour particles get stuck as they pass through the filter. This results in the odour becoming trapped inside, eliminating it from the air.

In fact, Big Orange has a larger carbon pellet volume than any other vent line filter on the market making it last longer and work better than any of its competitors.

Unlike any other vent line filter, Big Orange uses a refillable cartridge so that you don't need to buy a new filter every year. Instead, you only need to buy an inexpensive filter refill pack which is quick and easy to install.

Also, with traditional vent line filters you run the potential risk that your holding tank will collapse when being pumped due to the extra resistance on the vent line.

Big Orange eliminates this possibility by including a special by-pass valve to effectively "turn off" the filter so that you can empty the holding tank with no chance of collapse due to filter restriction.

With a refillable filter that works to eliminate odour and has more capacity than any other vent line filter on the market, not to mention quick and easy installation and a special by-pass valve, the Big Orange filter is a must have for any boater looking to simply enjoy the summer sun without having to worry about the other stuff.
