BY A STAFF REPORTER

DHL and Danzas AEI Emirates, the express and logistics providers of Deutsche Post World Net group, recently joined together to send a 40-ft container filled with 25 tonnes of donated goods to an orphanage in Sierra Leone, marking the success of a donations drive launched in coordination with All as One, a Dubai based charity.

The shipment, filled with much needed items to help rebuild the lives of children housed in the orphanage, is set to have a profound impact on these children who are victims of the war-torn country, and is the end result of a tremendous donation response from UAE residents.

The initiative's organiser, Matthew Morgan-Jones, Director of All As One said: "I am very grateful to DHL and Danzas for all their support. The contents of this container will go towards changing the lives of the orphans for now and the future."

DHL and Danzas participated in the charity drive by donating the container and providing its transport to Sierra Leone. David Wild, DHL UAE General Manager, said: "We are very pleased to play our part in contributing to the needs of these children who are less fortunate than ourselves. By putting our express and logistics expertise together with our sister company, Danzas, we are able to ensure that the container will reach Sierra Leone swiftly and securely."
