Scammell Highwayman Low Loader - Wynns

More new tooling brings the Scammell Highwayman, which was Scammell's 4 x 2 motive unit. The vehicle took on the Highwayman name after Scammell was absorbed into the Leyland Group in the 1950s. Power steering was introduced to the vehicle in 1961. The Oxford replica is based on the version that Scammell produced between 1961 and 1968, which featured a fibreglass cab with wraparound windscreen. The first model off the new tool recreates the vehicle used extensively by Wynns Heavy Haulage, whose transport tales of hauling behemoth loads are legendary. The tooling also enables the release of the model as a ballast tractor and wrecker in the not too distant future.

Tricycle Van - Bertram Mills

New to the Oxford range of Showtime models comes the unusual Tricycle Van which was a common sight on the roads of Britain from the 1930s right through to the 1950s. The first release appears in the livery of Bertram Mills Circus who used a very similar van to transport their Tannoy Sound Equipment. Decorated in their red and green colour scheme, with contrasting light coloured roof, the model has contrasting black chassis, wheels and interior – including the steering wheel. Registered AGH 96, the sides are printed in yellow with the Bertram Mills name, advertising what the van was carrying. The model would be very much in keeping on a layout of the 1930s-1950s period.

Volvo FH12 Box Lorry - White

One of the major requests from model diecast enthusiasts is for the production and standard availability of plain (white) vehicles ready for personal customisation. Here at Oxford, we have answered your prayer. Our newly tooled Volvo FH12 Box lorry in 1:76 scale, circa 1990s, should fit the bill for many of you wanting to add your own road scene decals or to complement your railway layout. With plenty of Volvo FH12 Box lorries on the roads today there is a wide choice of authentic liveries to replicate. It comes with masked front and rear lights and registration plate but leaves the rest to your imagination.

OXFORD AVIATION

Republic P47 Thunderbolt

The P-47 Thunderbolt was manufactured by Republic Aviation and was one of the main United States Army Air Force fighter-bombers of WWII. First flown in 1941, it entered service in 1942 and was subsequently used by several other Allied Air Forces during the conflict.

Nearly 16,000 were built and the sturdy, rugged aircraft proved to be a particularly effective short to medium range escort fighter in high altitude air to air combat, as well as a ground attack fighter-bomber in both the European and Pacific theatres of war. Officially retired in 1966, the P-47 still appears at air shows, where it continues to draw the crowds.

Our Oxford replica is modelled on the USAAF aircraft 42-26041 of 22nd Fighter Squadron, 36th Fighter Group, 9thAF Belgium, as flown in the winter of 1944.

Painted in all over silver with green canopy and anti-glare shield, the model has a wealth of detailed decoration, including the bright red 'Doogan' nose art. The blue and white US star emblems feature on the underside as well as on the fuselage, where additional black and white banding has also been faithfully reproduced, along with the 220641 numbering. Black banding also features on the tail where the rudder is painted in yellow. The gloss black engine is housed within red engine cowlings and the black propellers are finished with yellow tips. And – if that is not enough – even the wing lights are highlighted in red and green adding a final touch of authenticity.

Bentley Continental S1 Fastback - Maroon

Oxford's series of highly detailed prestige cars sees a new colour scheme on the Bentley S1 Continental Fastback. Modelled with its elegant and streamlined sloping back, the gleaming maroon bodywork also carries a wealth of silver 'chrome' to doors, window surrounds, bumpers and front grille. Note too the Bentley badge on the boot lid, along with a GB sticker. The interior is exceptionally well detailed too. The dashboard and door cappings are finished in a satinised brown and the steering wheel is black. The door panels and front and rear seating come in cream, as do the floor/carpets. No muddy shoes allowed in here! Registered VYW 667, this Bentley from the 1950s is a great addition to your prestige car collection

Ford 400E - Southdown

The Southdown bus fleet was one of the most popular and easily recognised of its time and in model miniature, it is also a collecting favourite. The company's green and cream public service vehicles comprised single deck and double deck buses and would have been supplemented by a fleet of support vehicles such as this van across a wide area of southern England. Registered 8063 CD, the green and cream Ford 400E carries the Southdown signature gold lettering, including address details of its Engineering Depot in Edward Street, Brighton. Even the Ford Thames marque features in red on the front and rear of the van. The side advertising panels and bumpers are finished in cream, rounding off a great little model to add to your Southdown fleet.

Ford 400E - Lyons Maid

With snow and ice outside as we write this editorial, it is difficult to imagine enjoying the smoother, sweeter, richer ice cream advertised on the sides of this superb little Lyons Maid van. In Oxford blue, white and grey and registered DGY 401, the authentic model livery really comes to life with the bright red lettering advertising one of the most popular brands of ice cream of all time. Additional detail includes a black interior while the wheel hubs reflect the Oxford blue of the bodywork. We see that J Lyons and Company also had Royal patronage, if you examine the detailed crests, which are carefully printed on the sides of this delightful vehicle.

Bullnose Morris Van - HM The Queen's Coronation - 60th Anniversary

Oxford celebrates the Coronation of Her Majesty the Queen on 2nd June 1953, with this very regal release in maroon and gold. The intensely detailed lettering in gold and white on the sides of the vehicle says it all! Even the wheels are gold plated! This model is a must for all collectors of Royal memorabilia as we enter another year of Royal celebrations.

AEC Matador Wrecker – BRS

This latest Oxford introduction on the Matador is as used by British Road Services, the British road transport company, formed by the nationalisation of the British road haulage industry. Decorated in the familiar and popular BRS colour scheme, it will appeal to dedicated collectors of this famous name in the history of British road transport. BRS was subsequently absorbed and is now part of Pickfords.

The new AEC Matador is also released as a covered truck in the Sunter Bros livery of grey and red with authentic registration plate OVN 596G. The livery of the AEC Matador purchased by the company denotes its use for Machinery Installation & Crane Hire, hence the added detail of a tow hook on the back.

Bedford OWB Bus – Merthyr Tydfil Corporation

This latest release on the Bedford OWB Bus is a great one for our Welsh bus enthusiasts. Heading for the Bush Hotel in Merthyr, this highly detailed little single decker comes in the authentic maroon, red and cream and sports a silver roof panel. It is also modelled with the large headlight option. Registered HB 5953, it carries the Merthyr Tydfil Corporation crest on the sides and even has the tax discs etched in gold on the driver's window. Note too, the internal brown slatted seats, moulded with authentic raised seating towards the back. Heads of the Valleys - here we come!

Citroen 2CV Dolly - Red and white

In eye-catching poppy red and white and finished off with lots of silver masking, Oxford has captured a striking model of an iconic French car! The 2CV (deux chevaux) Citroen epitomises French vehicles of the era. With a basic body shape, it was simple to maintain and was loved by young and old alike.

Registered G438 NGK, the detail on the model even extends to the bright red and white striped roof. Additional details include a black chassis, black petrol cap, black/silver trim to front and rear bumpers and front grille. It really is a Doll!

Classic Mini - Floral M & S

Complementing our previous model of this historic little Mini in 1:43 scale, we are pleased to introduce it now in 1:76 scale, too. In real life, this Mini was used in a Marks and Spencer advertisement, featuring the famous '60s model Twiggy. Typical of the Flower Power era, this eye-catching pink Mini has a finely detailed floral decoration. For Mini enthusiasts - and those of us for whom the Swinging Sixties was 'our time', this will make an interesting and desirable addition to your model shelf.

MK 1 VW Golf GTI - Silver

The Golf has been one of the most enduring VW vehicles and silver continues to be one of the most popular colour schemes, even on the VW Golfs produced today.

The Oxford version, registered A342 SYM, is modelled on the two-door option from 1963. The silver body is offset by black trim and a black interior with the authentic VW GTI lettering on the radiator grille and the rear. This release is a great one for car enthusiasts of the 1960s, some of whom we are sure would have had the real thing!
