

Bachelorette.com Presents The Bachelorette Party Scavenger Hunt

Who: This is a fun bachelorette party scavenger hunt for the bride and her friends.

Why: If you're looking for a fun bachelorette party game, there's no better one than having a bachelorette party scavenger hunt. People love a great scavenger hunt and we've tried to put together a winner.

When: We suggest having the scavenger hunt at the beginning of the evening. Starting the night out with a scavenger hunt will really get things going and will provide tons of fun stories for the remainder of the party. For this scavenger hunt, we suggest a time limit of either 2 or 3 hours. Your guests will find it quite a challenge and the list is long enough that they won't run out of things to collect.

How: Make copies of the scavenger hunt sheets. Divide your group into teams that will fit in one car each. Typically this means 3-4 girls but teams of 2 can take their Ferarri and teams of 7 can fit in a minivan. If you have a friend that drives a school bus, she can take 42 people! Ha. Give at least one copy of the task list to each team. Completing each task is worth one point, with bonus factors being worth an additional point. Pick a rendezvous point (like your home or the bar) and a finish time. Let them go.

During The Hunt: Keep your cell phone on and some bail money handy. Travel to the rendezvous point and start having fun. Martha Stewart would have appetizers ready at exactly the rendezvous time. I would probably just order some buckets of beer and nachos.

After The Hunt: When the time period expires and everyone has met up, tally up the points as you share your stories of this memorable night. Make sure to have a ridiculous prize waiting for the winners.

- ☐ Obtain a copy of a Playgirl magazine or any physical photo of a naked man. Bonus points if the porn is from before 1995.
