HOW TO USE

Please check the following before use:

1. The power cord is undamaged and in good condition
2. The silica gel in the display window is orange
3. The output voltage of the power socket is consistent with the voltage of this product

* For the first use, if the silica gel is dark, please put it on the charging base and power on until it returns to orange.

* When the silica gel is orange, it means that the product is ready for dehumidification.

* When it is dark, it means that the silica gel in the dehumidifier has been fully absorbed and saturated.

USAGE

1. When the silica gel is orange, the portable dehumidifier can be placed in a closet, cabinet, and other small spaces that need to be dehumidified.
2. When the silica gel is dark, please place the dehumidifier on the charging base and power it on. The indicator light will be green.
3. After 2 hours of charging, the machine will automatically stop heating and enter standby mode. The indicator light will flash white, indicating that charging is complete.
4. When the silica gel returns to orange it can be used to dehumidify again.

NOTE:

1. The discoloration speed will be affected by different usage environments. If the silica gel does not completely turn orange after charging for 2 hours, it means that it is not completely dry. Please lift the dehumidifier off the base for more than 3 seconds and put it back on the base. The dehumidifier will be heated again to ensure that the moisture in the silica gel is completely removed.

2. The light will flash white if the main body is not placed on the base after being powered on. It will not charge when the light flashes white.
