Natural Stone Disclaimer:

Stone is a natural product and as such contains variations in color, veining and textures. Some stone will contain inclusions, pits and fissures as a result of its geological formation. These are not flaws and material containing them will be fabricated as a quality product. A typical jobs may have seams. They are commonly located in the center of cut-outs like sinks and cooktops, at inside corners running the depth of the countertop, and in backsplashes at any height or elevation change.
