Carved out of stone like a sculpture. The multifunctional FELS Stool by OUT opens up a new perspective on the natural material wood. FELS is a form study that requires a special amount of time and sensitivity in the production process. As in sculpture, the associative form is gradually worked out of the material. The solid precious wood from sustainable forestry is presented in an unexpected context. Each of the countless edges is sanded individually by hand. The flowery grain of the wood is ideal for combining with expressive colors. An encounter of nature, craftsmanship and the Berlin State of Mind.

Whether at the table as a stool or as a side table in the living area – in the interplay of light and shadow, FELS looks like a completely new object from every angle.
