Things to Know

Hamburger Fold-Fold horizontally

Hotdog Fold-Fold vertically

Dotted Lines-These are the cutting lines.

Accordion Fold-This fold is like making a paper fan. Fold on the first line so that title is on top. Turn over and fold on next line so that title is on top again. Turn over again and fold again on the next line so that title is on top. Continue until all folds are done.

Cover Labels-Most of the booklets that are folded look nicer with a label on top instead of just a blank space. They will be referred to as “cover label.”

How do I know where to place each template in the folder?

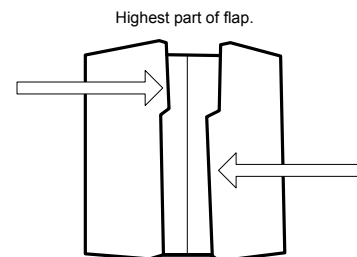

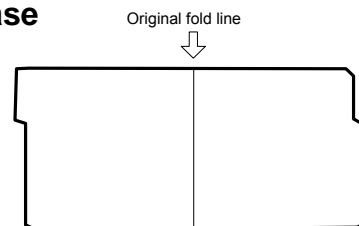

This placement key tells you the template goes in the first folder at the top of the left flap.

Folding a Lapbook Base

Gather the number of folders required for the project. Fold them flat as seen here.

For each folder, fold the left and right sides inward toward the original line to create two flaps. Crease so that the highest part of each flap is touching the original line. It is important not to let the two flaps overlap. You may want to take a ruler and run it down each crease to make it sharper.

This is a research lapbook, therefore no study guides are provided. Because web links tend to come and go almost daily, we provide few to no internet links. These topics are very easy for your child to research with your guidance. Some of the information asked for is open-ended, while other booklets require specific responses. Research skills are important because they enable students to verbalize thinking, discuss ideas and concepts, and gain confidence in finding their own answers and solutions.

Many young students quite naturally find research boring, yet it is an essential skill for academic success. This is where the benefit of a lapbook format comes in. A lapbook allows the student to be creative and gives him something to manipulate with his hands. Manipulatives often peak a student's interest in a subject, increase understanding of abstract concepts, and improve overall achievement.

We are confident your student will grow academically in all areas by utilizing our research lapbook in your school.
