

How much paint to make a dot

Flat tip with no

paint

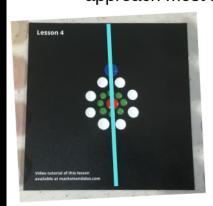

It should look like a drip on the end of the tool but not so much the paint actually drips

After dipping in paint it should cover the tip and have the start of a drip when pointed down

I am looking across the mandala trying to keep a straight light from one side to the other. Dotting at my 12 o'clock or North helps me do that. I use this approach most but not all of the time.

The light blue line is the line I imagine

Try to keep the same amount of space between the dots. The arrows in the photo point to an example. Use the dots on either side as a guide when placing the dot.

Imagine a triangle when placing outer dot between 2 inner dots
