Our Favorite Things

After meeting as students at the Parsons School of Art and Design, Paolina Leceese and Julian Taffel launched Le corosa in 2019. Today, the Berlin-based duo's nostalgic, colorful knitwear—newly embellished with smocked collars and exaggerated bows in their latest collaboration with the Lebanese designer Super Yaya—has earned the approval of everyone from the artist George Condo to directors Gia Coppola and Gus Van Sant. Leceese says of their made-in-Milan cashmere and merino cardigans, “They’re classics with a twist”—as are their own daily essentials, seen below.

Vintage Silk Pant Suit

“Many years ago, I bought a white two-piece suit from Chanel’s 1996 collection at a secondhand store in New York. My mom dyed it light blue so that I could wear it to my friend’s wedding; it’s still my favorite. This one is amazing for any wedding event.” —PL.

Dr. Hauschka
