Luke Irwin Cobalt & Chalk Berber Collection Rug, from $383 (4'x6')

PIGMENTS: A BERBER COLLECTION Cobalt blue has a history steeped in 'who done it?'. When artist and art dealer Van Weegeren was accused of selling famous Old Master paintings to Hermann Goring and other members of the Nazi regime, he pleaded innocence by revealing that he had in fact forged the paintings. The proof was in his use of Cobalt, a paint that post-dated the Renaissance. Unmasked and shamed, he was subsequently publicly branded a fraud and sentenced to a year in prison. He died a month later, apparently of a broken heart.
