Environment

We believe we have a moral obligation to leave this Earth a better place than we found it — harmonizing our company needs with those of the environment. Our Los Angeles manufacturing facility, located in the historic Industrial Goodyear Track, utilizes one of the largest solar energy systems in Southern California. Moreover, our zero-emissions, eco-friendly finishing bays; enhance our position as a leader when it comes to environmentally conscious manufacturing.

By creating eco-conscious products that last through generations, Wesley Allen offers today's consumer a solution that unites beauty and peace of mind.

UniBody Construction

Experienced craftsmen meticulously weld each piece together then hand-pour each decorative casting directly over the welded iron to create an exceptionally solid bed as uncompromising in strength as it is in beauty.

AVERY 4131

The Avery daybed challenges ordinary, boring daybed design. A posh, debonair statement piece with an attitude, the Avery boasts clean, crisp lines and square sides carefully upholstered and finished with orderly rows of complementary tacks - like the button links on a crisp new shirt. A solid skirt drops from the front of the daybed almost to the floor, and a substantial back also helps keep the feel of the piece beautifully balanced and grounded.

BENNETT 4195

The charm of the Bennett day bed lies in its elegant, unhurried personality. From handsome upright supports to the Camelback style back and sloped sides, Bennett offers both relaxed comfort and style. A deep, rich finish adds substance, and carefully worked finials, ornamental joints, and elegantly tapered feet combine to complete the iron bed's look without busying Bennett's characteristically nonchalant style.

BLAKE 4194

The Blake day bed is full of character, humor, and unexpected surprises. Blake's thicker frame, joints reminiscent of pipe fittings, and simple, balanced finials give it a sophisticated twist on a classic. The back is slightly higher than the sides, the iron bed design maintains visual interest and balance while keeping Blake's overall feel candid and to-the-point.

The Otsego day bed pairs airy, lighthearted wit with a touch of romance. Careful arches and slopes pair with straightforwardly vertical supports to create an elegant, unpretentious effect. SPENCER 4156

The Spencer daybed's smart, gentle lines and substantial upholstered frame upgrade the stereotypical daybed with a much more refined, sophisticated style. Wrought iron panels drop from the frame almost to the floor, and elegantly curved lines, shape each side for a beautifully-proportioned piece that would fit beautifully in a traditional or eclectic space.
