Caution >

Alignment of Guide Spacing

- 1 Put the guide on this blank temporarily using scotch tape at the value point.
- 2 Connect all sections.
- 3 Grip the position of grip space. It's about 6" point from the butt end.
- 4 Hold the rod horizontally.
- 5 Shake the blank up and down gently.
- 6 You can see the point that was not moved in the tip section.
- 7 This is the point 4th guide.
- 8 If the actual 4th guide position is different from the above table, shift the following guide positions to account for the difference.

I recognize that the 4th guide position is very important. The reason why if the 4th guide put on different position, fly line can not run through the guides smoothly when you casting. And please don't forget to put the guides on actual position that you calculate using the difference value of 4th guide.
