Once again, Gemfields has teamed up with the House of Meraki jewelry to launch a collection that will be available exclusively on Net-a-Porter. House of Meraki was founded by Gargi Rathi, nicknamed the "Emerald Lady," thanks to her passion for this vibrant green stone.

The exquisitely designed Meraki Emeralds collection celebrates the strong, independent spirit of women and is an extension of the iconic Jaime collection. Each pavé stone in this collection has been carefully selected, as its brilliance and charm reflect the strength and beauty of a woman. The Meraki Emeralds collection is a symbol of timeless elegance and modernity, and to empower women and encourage them to accept their distinctive qualities, overcome challenges and shine like a star in the sky.

Emeralds are at the center of all Gargi designs in this and previous collections. The Meraki Emeralds collection shines with clear diamonds, 18-karat gold, and emeralds imported responsibly from the Gemfields mines in Zambia. Coincidentally, Gargi used to visit the Zambian markets with her mother weekly when she was young, where she was amazed by the beauty of the emeralds displayed on the side of the street, and from here her dream of working in the field was born.
