

GO-BIOTIC - THE PREBIOTIC & PROBIOTIC FOR GOATS

Go-Biotic is a prebiotic and probiotic culture of selected live bacteria formulated for use as a nutritional aid in conditions of anticipated stress. It is not a drug or medicine, is completely safe to use and is no danger whatsoever to humans.

The single dose Go-Biotic sachet contains a balanced mixture of several different bacterial strains typified by rapid reproductive rates and colonising ability throughout the gut. These naturally occurring intestinal bacteria have been selected for their proven beneficial effects and optimum proliferation. They help maintain a stable intestinal population essential for the efficient absorption of nutrients, promoting maximum growth and performance. By "crowding out" pathogens (harmful bacteria), the beneficial strains will counteract E. Coli and other enterotoxins.

Directions for use:

A single introductory dose should be administered as soon as possible after birth and thereafter at times of particular stress. These include: rehousing, transportation, kidding, dehorning, castration, weaning, change of diet etc. Animals that are scouring, off feed or showing obvious signs of illness can also be safely fed Go-Biotic. Sprinkle the contents of the Go-Biotic sachet on to the daily feed ration. Alternatively mix with milk replacer for feeding to kids or use as a drench by dissolving in approximately 20 ml of warm water.

Do not mix with water at temperatures above 120°F, 48°C

Store in a cool dry place.
