Start to fill the template with your choice of base colour. This is lilac.

I find it easier to start at the bottom of the template and work up. As the wool felts it will shrink slightly.

Lightly felt the fluff in place as you work your way to filling the template. Once you have all the template evenly filled then stab all over. Don't forget to keep lifting it off the mat so it doesn't stick.

Pay particular attention to the edges and prongs of the crown so that they will hold their shape.

Top Tip- I use the blunt end of the needle to help coax the fluff into tighter parts of the template. It can sometimes be a bit fiddly!

Rolling the fluff into tube shapes also helps fill more awkward shapes in the template, such as the prongs.

Check the template is evenly filled with no lumps or bumps. Hold up to the light to check for thin patches.

Trim any loose fuzzies from the shape.

I like to add a little dimension to the crown by adding some extra fibre to the centre. This gives a slightly domed effect.

There are many ways to decorate the crown. You may even choose to leave it plain, or add some shimmer fibre to your initial blend of fluff.

A quick way of decorating is to take a small pinch of contrast color and roll and split into three. Roll each piece into a ball and felt into place as shown in the next picture.

Take another pinch of colour and roll into a long strand. Felt this into place as a band.

Another tiny pinch of wool i felt into a diamond shape in the middle of the band.

There are lots of ways to decorate the crown...embroidery, sequins, beads, glitter!
