Shakespeare QUOTES

In 1905, an under-graduate student brought a book to the Bodleian for advice. This book was identified as Mr. William Shakespeare's Comedies, Histories, & Tragedies, otherwise known as the lost First Folio which the Bodleian had sold in the late 1660s.

The Bodleian purchased the newly discovered book for £3000 - a far larger sum than had hitherto been paid for any book - and the volume was returned to its original home in 1906.

Bodleian BOOKSHELVES

A Bodleian Libraries best seller, our Bodleian Bookshelf range takes its inspiration from colourful, late-nineteenth-and early-twentieth-century books on the Library shelves. Before the advent of dust-jackets many books, especially those for children, were bound in brightly coloured cloth with pictorial blocking in gold and vivid colours.
