

The Native Shop invites you to sell your products in our online store - www.nativeshop.com.au

How it works:

- » The supplier agrees for The Native Shop to promote and sell their products on our online store www.nativeshop.com.au
- » The supplier will provide images and details of the selected products and/or give permission for information to be taken directly off their website, which will be uploaded to The Native Shop.
- » Delivery of products to the customer will be the responsibility of the supplier.
- » Once an order has been placed on The Native Shop, the order will be emailed onto the supplier to fulfill and post to the customer. The supplier organises a tracking code to be sent to The Native Shop to input into the system to notify the customer the order has been sent.
- » The supplier emails invoices of products sold at wholesale prices plus postage to wnn@bigpond.net.au.

Who we are:

The Native Shop specialises in quality and innovative Australian products with an extensive range of Australian native plants and seeds plus a selection of books on Australian plants and the environment. Other products in the online store include a wide range of fantastic gift ideas and garden accessories.

In-store at the Wimmera Native Nursery, Dimboola they offer Australian products including Tubestock, Pots and Advanced Stock, Home/Farm Advisory Service, a wide range of Native and Exotic Plants, Guards, Stakes and Accessories.

Contact:

To discuss further or if you would like to sell your products on The Native Shop, please email sammy@econews.com.au.

PLUS - Receive a FREE Media Release promoting your products on Eco Voice - www.ecovoice.com.au

What does this mean:

- » The supplier will email a media release to tim@carbonmarket.com.au with at least one supporting image.
- » The media release will be uploaded to Eco Voice website www.ecovoice.com.au and also feature in the monthly e-newsletter reaching tens of thousands of subscribers.
- » The article will be promoted via our various social media platforms with 100,000+ combined followers across the media assets.
- » Examples of media releases on Eco Voice can be found below.

Example 1

Example 2

Who we are:

Eco Voice was first published in 2003 and prides itself as an independent platform, providing a free channel for not-for-profits and serves as a low-cost for businesses, helping them to get their messages out to a very targeted audience.

One of the leading environmental news platforms in Australia, with tens of thousands of subscribers receiving the monthly newsletter.

Contact:

To discuss further or if you would like to sell your products on The Native Shop, please email sammy@econews.com.au.

The Process - 8 simple steps to get your products online at - www.nativeshop.com.au

Step 1:

The Supplier agrees for The Native Shop to promote and sell their products on our online store www.nativeshop.com.au.

Step 2

The Supplier provides images and details of the selected products and/or gives permission for information to be taken directly off the Supplier's website (which will be uploaded to The Native Shop).

Step 3

Delivery of products to the customer will be the responsibility of the Supplier. Once an order has been placed on The Native Shop the order will be emailed to the Supplier to pack and send the order to the customer (via Australia Post).

Step 4

The Supplier organises a tracking code to be sent to The Native Shop via email (wnn@bigpond.net.au) to input into the system to notify the Customer the order has been sent.

Step 5

The Supplier monitors the tracking code to ensure that delivery has been made to the Customer.

Step 6

The Native Shop emails the Customer with a "Your Order has now been Shipped" message that includes the tracking code as well as links to follow us on social media platforms.

Step 7

The Supplier emails invoices of products sold and delivered at wholesale prices (including previously agreed postage charges) to The Native Shop via email (wnn@bigpond.net.au) for the previous month.

Step 8

The Native Shop reconciles the invoice with what has been sold for the previous month (with confirmed delivery) and pays the Supplier within 14 days. The Supplier is notified via email or phone of any discrepancy and discussed and resolved.

