

1. Hold Dash Pod in desired position under the factory storage cut-out at the bottom of the dashboard. Mark location of where two front holes will be drilled in dash to secure the pod. Rear portion of Dash Pod will be held in place by locating the pod on two factory bolts, found underneath.
2. Drill two front holes in dash using a $\frac{9}{32}$ -inch drill bit.
3. Remove the two factory rear bolts.
4. Install front bolts to locate and mark rear holes in the Dash Pod.
5. Remove Pod and drill two rear holes in pod.
6. Install the gauges in the dash pod. Run wiring out the back of the pod and through the firewall.

NOTE: Installing this Dash Pod with mechanical pressure gauges may require 12ft. nylon tubing kit model 3226 (not for use with fuel pressure gauges). 12ft. capillary tubing may also be needed on mechanical temperature gauges.

7. Secure Dash Pod to the dashboard using included bolts. Use long bolts in rear and short bolts in front.

NOTE

Due to normal manufacturing processes you may have "flashing" (small fibers of plastic) around the pod holes. Once the gauge(s) are installed in the pod you will not be able to see the "flashing."
