VEGAN JEANS BY FARAH NAZ

insures the perfect fit. They pride themselves on sustainable practices using recycled and eco-friendly fabrics when possible. Their recycled jeans are made from recycled fabric that uses a waterless process that reduces 96% of the water normally used in denim finishing. Their other jeans are made with organic cotton, recycled polyester and we use a cellulose fiber fabric that is derived from wood pulp. The Cupro Silk that they use, also known as vegan silk, doesn't contain any animal by-products, is cruelty free, low maintenance and machine washable unlike regular silk which is dry clean only using many chemicals. Their philosophy has always been to create fashion that not only speaks to the world of making clothing using sustainable practices, but also boosts your confidence in knowing your sustainable garment is chemical-free and environmentally friendly.

fitting outfit ready for any occasion. They keep a limited stock of each item because they avoid mass production to maintain quality and sustainable practices. For the planet-conscious woman who wants to feel good about what she is wearing, the sustainable ready-to-wear collection is a fantastic conversation starter and head-turner. The delicate design of the collection is simple yet accomplished, with eco-friendly jeans, double silk jumpsuits, cashmere, or cupro silk outfits.
