Michael Felix is pleased to present Formations & Figments, a group exhibition based around ceramics curated by Tyler Christopher Brown.

Do form and function operate symbiotically or independently? This exhibition is an inquiry into these artists' inclinations and inspirations. Begging the question of what is the impetus for constructing these formations. Clay's utility is inextricably pronounced in our quotidian lives: idols such as the Venus of Dolní Věstonice convolute this context and date back to the Paleolithic period.

Formations and Figments features a gamut of motives for making, which is tangible in these artists diverse sensibilities. Ceramic clowns echo Camp aesthetics, conveying a sardonic sentimentality. Pensive requiems of endurance function as a counterpoint as Candelabras, formed during the pandemic, evoke a poetic reverence to the tone of "Do not go gentle into that good night." While towering, teetering, totemic sculptures insight a sense of precarity. In contrast, expressionistic vessels on cider blocks serve as anchoring points. Kettlebells and wine kraters speak to tradition and functionality. Yet all of which blur these lines set in stoneware.
