| 1 | What are the different models of E-Governance ? | The different modes of e governance are:Government to Citizen (G2C)The goal of government to customer/citizen (G2C) e-governance is to offer a variety of ICT services to citizens in an efficient and economical manner and to strengthen the relationship between government and citizens using technology. There are several methods of government-to-customer e-governance. Two-way communication allows citizens to instant message directly with public administrators and cast remote electronic votes (electronic voting) and instant opinion poll. Transactions such as payment of services, such as city utilities, can be completed online or over the phone.Government to Employees (G2E)E-Governance to Employee partnership (G2E) is one of four main primary interactions in the delivery model of E-Governance. It is the relationship between online tools, sources, and articles that help employees maintain communication with the government and their own companies. E-Governance relationship with Employees allows new learning technology in one simple place as the computer. Documents can now be stored and shared with other colleagues online. Government to Government (G2G)It is an electronic sharing of data and/or information system between government agencies, departments or organizations. The goal of G2G is to support e-government initiatives by improving communication, data access and data sharing.Government to Business(G2B)It is an online non-commercial interaction between local and central government and the commercial business sector with the purpose of providing businesses information and advice on e-business 'best practices'. G2B is also refers to the conduction through the Internet between government agencies and trading companies. Public issue and share transfer records is mandatory to be kept in electronic form. |
| 2 | What is Listing of Securities? Explain the Legal Provisions regarding listing. | As per Section 40 of the Companies Act, 2013, every company intending to offer shares or debentures to the public for subscription by the issue of a prospectus is required to make an application to one or more recognized stock exchanges before such issue for permission for the securities intending to be so offered to be dealt with in the stock exchange(s).As per Section 40 of the Companies Act, 2013, prospectus |

| | | should state the names of the stock exchanges where application for listing has been made and any allotment of securities made on the basis of such prospectus should be void if permission of listing is not granted by the stock exchange(s) before the expiry of 10 weeks from the closure of the issue.As per Section 4 of the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, every recognized stock exchange has the powers to make bye-laws for the listing of securities on the stock exchange, inclusion of any security for the purpose of dealings and suspension or withdrawal of securities and the prohibition of trading in any specified security, subject to SEBI approval.Every company while submitting its application for listing with the stock exchange(s) should produce a number of documents as enclosures to satisfy the requirements of the concerned stock exchange. It should also give a number of under takings as a condition precedent before listing as a sought by the concerned stock exchange. Finally, when the stock exchange(s) agree(s) to list the securities, the company shall execute a listing agreement with the stock exchange(s). The listing agreements of different stock exchanges have clauses ranging from 50 to 60.When a company signs a listing agreement with a stock exchange, it means it has entered a legally binding contract with that exchange and it has to ensure compliance of each and every term and condition in the listing agreement. For failure to ensure such compliance the stock exchange can take an action against the company after giving an opportunity of being heard.Listing of securities on Indian Stock Exchanges, thus, is essentially governed by the provisions in the Companies Act, 2013, the Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956, the Securities Contracts (Regulations) Rules, 1957, Rules, Bye-laws, regulations of concerned stock exchange, the listing agreement entered into by the issuer and stock exchange and circulars / guidelines issued by the Central Government and SEBI. |

In other words, it involves repackaging of less liquid assets into saleable securities. The securitization company takes over the mortgaged assets of the borrower and is entitled to adopt the following steps:• Getting hold of financial assets from bank• Creating funds from eligible institutional buyers by din-t of issuing security receipts to acquire the financial assets• Fund raising in any legal way• Financial asset acquisition along with taking over the mortgaged assets (such as building, land etc)Asset Reconstruction: It refers to conversion of non-performing assets into performing assets. There are multiple steps to reconstruct asset. The point to be noted in this context is reconstruction must be done in accordance with the SARFAESI Act and RBI regulations.Security Interest Enforcement: As per the Act, the financial institutions are entitled to issue notice to the defaulting loan takers as well as guarantors, asking them to clear the sum in arrears within 60 days from the date of issuing the notice under Insolvency and bankruptcy board of India. If the defaulter fails to act in accordance with the notice, the bank is entitled to enforce security interest. |
| 26 | Explain the principle of insurable interest. | The principle of insurable interest states that the person getting insured must have insurable interest in the object of insurance. A person has an insurable interest when the physical existence of the insured object gives him some gain but its non-existence will give him a loss. In simple words, the insured person must suffer some financial loss by the damage of the insured object. There should direct relation between the person and the asset which is insured by him.For example: The owner of a taxicab has insurable interest in the taxicab because he is getting income from it. But, if he sells it, he will not have an insurable interest left in that taxicab. From this example, we can conclude that, ownership plays a very crucial role in evaluating insurable interest. Every person has an insurable interest in his own life. A merchant has insurable interest in his business of trading. Similarly, a creditor has insurable interest in his |

| 28 | State the National Voluntary Guidelines, 2011 on Social, Environmental and Economic Responsibilities of Business. | National Voluntary Guidelines 2011 on Social, Environmental and Economic Responsibilities of Business: The Guidelines emphasize that businesses have to endeavour to become responsible actors in society, so that their every action leads to sustainable growth and economic development. These Guidelines have been developed through an extensive consultative process by a Guidelines Drafting Committee (GDC) comprising competent and experienced professionals representing different stakeholder groups. The Guidelines are designed to be used by all businesses irrespective of size, sector or location and therefore touch on the fundamental aspects of an enterprise. The Guidelines are applicable to all such entities, and are intended to be adopted by them comprehensively, as they raise the bar in a manner that makes their value creating operations sustainable. The Guidelines have been articulated in the form of nine (9) |

|---|---|---|
| | | Principles with the Core Elements to actualize each of the principles. A reading of each Principle, with its attendant Core Elements, should provide a very clear basis for putting that Principle into practice.Principle 1: Businesses should conduct and govern themselves with Ethics, Transparency and Accountability The principle recognizes that ethical conduct in all its functions and processes is the cornerstone of responsible business. The principle acknowledges that business decisions and actions, including those required to operationalize the principles in these Guidelines should be amenable to disclosure and be visible to relevant stakeholders. The principle emphasizes that businesses should inform all relevant stakeholders of the operating risks and address and redress the issues raised. The principle recognizes that the behaviour, decision making styles and actions of the leadership of the business establishes a culture of integrity and ethics throughout the enterprise.Principle 2: Businesses should provide goods and services that are safe and contribute to sustainability throughout their life cycle. The principle emphasizes that in order to function effectively and profitably, businesses should work to improve the quality of life of people. The principle recognizes that all stages of the product life cycle, right from design to final disposal of the goods and services after use, have an impact on society and the environment. Responsible businesses, therefore, should engineer value in their goods and services by keeping in mind these impacts.Principle 3: Businesses should promote the well being of all employees The principle encompasses all policies and practices relating to the dignity and wellbeing of employees engaged within a business or in its value chain. The principle extends to all categories of employees engaged in activities contributing to the business, within or outside of its boundaries and covers work performed by individuals, including sub-contracted and home based work.Principle 4: Businesses should respect the interests of and be responsive towards all stakeholders, especially those who are disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalized The principle recognizes that businesses have a responsibility to think and act beyond the interests of its shareholders to include all their stakeholders. The Principle, while appreciating that all stakeholders are not equally influential |

| | | or aware, encourages businesses to proactively engage with and respond to those that are disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalized.Principle 5: Businesses should respect and promote human rights The principle recognizes that human rights are the codification and agreement of what it means to treat others with dignity and respect. Over the decades, these have evolved under the headings of civil, political, economic, cultural and social rights. This holistic and widely agreed nature of human rights offers a practical and legitimate framework for business leaders seeking to manage risks, seize business opportunities and compete in a responsible fashion. The principle imbibes its spirit from the Constitution of India, which through its provisions of Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of State Policy, enshrines the achievement of human rights for all its citizens. In addition, the principle is in consonance with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, in the formation of which, India played an active role.Principle 6: Business should respect, protect and make efforts to restore the environment The principle recognizes that environmental responsibility is a prerequisite for sustainable economic growth and for the well being of society. The principle emphasizes that environmental issues are interconnected at the local, regional and global levels which makes it imperative for businesses to address issues such as global warming, biodiversity conservation and climate change in a comprehensive and systematic manner.Principle 7: Businesses, when engaged in influencing public and regulatory policy, should do so in a responsible manner The principle recognizes that businesses operate within the specified legislative and policy frameworks prescribed by the Government, which guide their growth and also provide for certain desirable restrictions and boundaries. The principle acknowledges that in a democratic set-up, such legal frameworks are developed in a collaborative manner with participation of all the stakeholders, including businesses. The principle, in that context, recognizes the right of businesses to engage with the Government for redressal of a grievance or for influencing public policy and public opinion. The principle emphasizes that policy advocacy must expand public good rather than diminish it or make it available to a select few. |

|---|---|---|
| | | Principle 8: Businesses should support inclusive growth and equitable development The principle recognizes the challenges of social and economic development faced by India and builds upon the development agenda that has been articulated in the government policies and priorities. The principle recognizes the value of the energy and enterprise of businesses and encourages them to innovate and contribute to the overall development of the country, especially to that of the disadvantaged, vulnerable and marginalised sections of society. The principle also emphasizes the need for collaboration amongst businesses, government agencies and civil society in furthering this development agenda. The principle reiterates that business prosperity and inclusive growth and equitable development are interdependent.Principle 9: Businesses should engage with and provide value to their customers and consumers in a responsible manner This principle is based on the fact that the basic aim of a business entity is to provide goods and services to its customers in a manner that creates value for both. The principle acknowledges that no business entity can exist or survive in the absence of its customers. The principle recognizes that customers have the freedom of choice in the selection and usage of goods and services and that the enterprises will strive to make available goods that are safe, competitively priced, easy to use and safe to dispose off, for the benefit of their customers. The principle also recognizes that businesses have an obligation to mitigating the long term adverse impacts that excessive consumption may have on the overall wellbeing of individuals, society and our planet. |

| 44 | Explain the Principle of Causa Proxima | (a Latin phrase), or in simple English words, the Principle of Proximate (i.e. Nearest) Cause, means when a loss is caused by more than one causes, the proximate or the nearest or the closest cause should be taken into consideration to decide the liability of the insurer. The principle states that to find out whether the insurer is liable for the loss or not, the proximate (closest) and not the remote (farthest) must be looked into. |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | | For example: A cargo ship's base was punctured due to rats and so sea water entered and cargo was damaged. Here there are two causes for the damage of the cargo ship - (i) The cargo ship getting punctured because of rats, and (ii) The sea water entering ship through puncture. The risk of sea water is insured but the first cause is not. The nearest cause of damage is sea water which is insured and therefore the insurer must pay the compensation.However, in case of life insurance, the principle of Causa Proxima does not apply. Whatever may be the reason of death (whether a natural death or an unnatural death) the insurer is liable to pay the amount of insurance. |
