

Leaders in Business - San Diego

Inspired by Home

Photography by: Samantha Goh Photography

Maybe it's that she started her design career as a child, building her own forts just to test out her design ideas. Or perhaps it's linked to her degree in Interior Design, one that stressed style and aesthetics as much as it did architectural theory and project management. However you want to explain it, one thing is certain: Jaki Yermian is a master at transforming spaces.

Offering full-service design, Jaki makes it all look seamless.

Whether she's introducing one-of-a-kind lighting for kitchen redesigns or the perfect shade of color to pull it all together in a classically timeless way, it's crystal clear why San Diego is buzzing about her work. She shows up ready to tackle every aspect of design, from the details of construction to the placement of the final accessory.

"My clients consistently say they're surprised at how easy the design process is," she says.

"From the minute I walk into the door, we connect. They're not intimidated. They're not asked to go over budget. They're not asked to adapt to a style that doesn't look and feel like them. They simply feel inspired by their home."

