

Peerless-AV®'s New Desktop Mounts Get it Right in Education, Office, and Gaming Settings

LCT620A Desktop Mounts Improve Desktop Ergonomics, Preventing User Pain

Aurora, Ill. – April 7, 2015 – Peerless-AV®, the leader in wireless audio and digital signage solutions, is pleased to announce the launch of the LCT620A Desktop Mount.

Ideal for education, commercial office space, and gaming applications, the LCT620A Desktop Mount can be customized to fit users' needs, with the ability to be configured in single, double, triple, and quad arrangements.

Featuring a stylish design, the LCT620A is comprised of polished aluminum articulating arm(s) with chrome and gloss black accents.

Along with an aesthetically pleasing look and improved space efficiency, the LCT620A Desktop Mount also improves workstation ergonomics by allowing displays to be located at the perfect working angle. In addition, when employing the triple and quad versions, monitors can be independently adjusted for maximum workspace efficiency and comfort.

With the flexible monitor viewing and emphasis on an ergonomic office design, Peerless-AV's LCT620A Desktop Mounts can prevent fatigue, muscle aches and eyestrain.

The Peerless-AV LCT620A Desktop Mount is currently available for purchase via Peerless-AV direct sales representatives and authorized distribution network.
