

PAINTERS BRAIN

© Ronnie Taheny Jan 2008

I don't want some piece of you.
You can keep your ear and your other bits too.
I just want you to be who you are.
First impressions like these won't get you, won't get me very far.
There's one thing you can't claim...

You've got your absinthe and art galleries (Things in common you might find)
You know you're hanging with good company (Things in common you might find)
When you know you're trying real hard but you're just some other wannabe
If you could see it from the outside there are things that I know that you wish that you never would be
With your berets, cravats and your scenes, you've got (Things in common you believe)

Well, you are deluded. Like Raphael's included.
There are some things that are almost the same
But you're missing one thing and for you it's something,
Some things are never the same –
There is just one thing you'll never claim.

I don't want some piece of you.
You can keep your ear and your other bits too.
I just want you to be who you are.
First impressions like these won't get you, won't get me very far.
There's one thing you can't claim...

Painters Brain (Things in common you might find)

So you're eating lead now, gonna go for Goya's cred now
There are some things that are almost the same
But you're missing one thing and for you it's something
Some things are never the same.
There is just one thing that you'll never claim.

I don't want some piece of you.
You can keep your ear and your other bits too.
I just want you to be who you are.
First impressions like these won't get you, won't get me very far.
There's one thing you can't claim...

If there's one thing you could claim
You'd be made, find your fame.
If there's one thing you can't claim
Painters Brain.