Another Studio is a boutique London design company founded by Aimée Furnival in 2009. Our designs reflect our fun and playful approach to making, offering a curated collection of products to bring charm and character to your lives. Inspired by ephemera, architecture and the botanics, we're enthusiastic about every product we create, especially if plays with scale.

We take great pride in experimenting with and refining new ideas, so each release is fresh and fun for you as well. Motivated by a passion to create and share, our small, independent design studio isn't pinned down by niches and trends, only the desire to create something a little different.
