

PARK CITY

Park City was once a silver mining town, producing over $400 million. It was also the first city in Utah to have electricity. Nowadays, it is most famous for Robert Redford's annual Sundance Film Festival and for hosting many winter sports events. Pictured here in its historic olden days, Park City main street is now a hub of restaurants, shops and art galleries.

1. Main Street, Park City has some world class art galleries.
2. Main Street Deli—good eats
3. Small souvenir shop
4. Cunningham Building
5. Steep stairways connect the streets in old town.
6. Park City Trolleys have long been part of the city.
7. General Store
8. The brightly painted homes give flavor and flair to the community.
9. Washington School, built in 1889, is on the National Registry.
10. St. Lukes Episcopal Church