BEAR LAKE

Sitting on the border of Utah and Idaho, Bear Lake is a large scenic lake often called “Caribbean of the Rockies” because of its intense turquoise blue water, a result of limestone deposits. Surrounded by white, sandy beaches, you can imagine yourself on your own little island. As a popular tourist destination, you can jet ski, sail, hunt, fish, ski and snowmobile there. Enjoy this rendition by Eric Dowdle as he combines all of the fun of the present day with the nostalgia of the past.
