

CHICAGO WINTER

Friends and strangers, welcome to Chicago's prime spot to gather and celebrate the Christmas spirit in the only way possible, Chicago style! With the snow finally settled and the holiday lights glowing, this city can show off how you should celebrate Christmas tonight! First, you must enjoy a cup of hot coco, and then eat a warm Chicago hot dog as you observe ice skaters gliding across Millennium Park. Then you might even find a few things to laugh about throughout the puzzle and a few "lovely dove" couples. Skate around one of Chicago's most wonderful winter traditions in this folk art puzzle with the stars shining bright this festive night.

1. Willis Tower was built in 1973 and surpassed the World Trade Center in New York for nearly 25 years, until 2014 when the new building of the World Trade Center was finished.
2. The Chicago Navy Pier played a pivotal role in WWII in housing soldier's barracks, a Red Cross station and a detention center for draft dodgers.
3. Notably, most people recognize Millennium Park's iconic landmark the Cloud Gate, but you may know it as the "Chicago Bean."
4. Shedd Aquarium first opened in 1930 and was the first inland aquarium with a permanent salt-water fish collection.
5. Soldier Field first opened in 1924, making it the oldest standing NFL stadium in the country with a capacity of 45,000 to seat.
6. Park Grill is not only the gateway to Millennium Park, it's also an award-winning destination restaurant, making it the perfect pick me up before or after ice skating.
7. Even in the winter, you must try a Chicago Hotdog. It's irresistible!
8. Awww, look at the lovebirds Eric and Deb!
9. The Millennium Park McCormick Tribune Ice Rink is one of Chicago's more recent traditions that has been going on for nearly 20 years.
10. Look at this cute dog learning a new trick, skating!
11. Falling is okay, as long as you get back up again.
