

OLSEN PARK

The moon has risen and friends and family have gathered together on this cool night for the perfect event. Iceskating! One of the most memorable activities to do during the winter. Each person is here for a different reason, whether to hold hands with the one you love, practice your iceskating skill, or simply to have fun with your best friend (dogs included), it can all happen here at Olsen Park. Eric's painting highlights this wonderful park with the perfect moonlight glow, not only for its beauty, but in memory of Merlin Olsen. Come and let's skate the night away!

1. Nothing like building the classic snowman during the winter.
2. Come! Warm yourself by the campfire and gather around while the barbershop carolers sing your favorite carols.
3. How fun to rent your skates from a store that is shaped like a skate! You can't miss the Rustic Skate.
4. Gossner Foods is a awesome dairy food store that has been running since 1966, delcaring with its awesome blowing Scottman that they have perfected their food perfectly.
5. This is a Waxing Crescent Moon, meaning it will keep growing until it reaches the full moon.
6. The Logan Temple was dedicated in 1884, and is located in North Utah.
7. Being pulled by someone else, now this is my kind of iceskating!
8. Friends at Stephn's Hot Cocoa (the best hot cocoa) commissioned this wonder park.
9. Now this lad knows how to charmer the ladies.
10. This park is name after a Logan native, the famous Merlin Olsen.
11. Merlin Olsen is known for many things: his role as farmer Jonathan Garvey in the television series, The Little House on the Prairie, an announcer, and a defensive tackler with the Los Angeles Rams for 15 years and National Football League Hall of Famer.
