

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CHRISTMAS

If you want the perfect Christmas skiing trip, then the Rocky Mountain ski areas of Brighton and Solitude are the perfect place for you! Painted during the Christmas season, Eric captures the magic of these resorts with exhilarating ski runs, classic Eric humor, hot coco, and more. Only 30 minutes from a major metropolitan area, you can celebrate the winter season at Big Cottonwood Canyon, Utah. Take off your boots and celebrate the Rocky Mountain's this Christmas with friends, family, and few snowmen too!

1. A view of the Wasatch Spur mountain range during the winter season stirs the onlooker's heart with the beauty surrounding them.
2. Moose have wide hooves, giving them the capability to walk on top of deep snow.
3. Milly Bowl is just one of the popular and scenic runs in the Brighton resort.
4. Both the Powderhorn Lodge and Main Ticket Office are located in Solitude Ski Resort.
5. Make sure to look at the decorated Christmas Trees, their lights are spectacular to view in the evening!
6. The Inn at Solitude and the Solitude Mountain Spa are perfect destinations for relaxing after a day of skiing the mountain.
7. Aww, now that is the perfect way to share some winter warmth.
8. This is Bernard, the self-appointed King of the Mountain. He wanted to make a special appearance in Eric's painting.
9. The number 37 appears 7 times in this painting. Can you find them all, even the tiny ones?
10. Did you know that snowmen love skiing too? This one loves welcoming you to his favorite ski lodge.
11. Better be careful with that snowball or you'll be on the couch!
12. A local fan shows his pride, "SKI UTAH—The Greatest Snow on Earth."
13. Creekside Condos at Solitude Ski Resort have some of the best view of the area.
14. Solitude Mountain Resort opened in 1957.
15. A "ski-in" lodge is where you ride out on a lift to a ski run and come back down and actually ski into the building where you are staying. That's cool.
16. Brighton Ski Resort, established in 1936 and was the first tow-serviced ski area in Utah.
