

ARBOR

Color Stories

ALIZARIN: Crimson, a cooler and less impulsive red than Firebrush.

DORADO: The deep green of the ocean near forested shores.

ARABESQUE: A sophisticated greyed mauve of middle value.

DEGAS: Pale beige with a blush of pink. Complements many of our deeper hues and shades in colorwork.

BLACK FIG: Warm blackened purple, an intriguing alternative to black or charcoal that pairs well with neutrals. This shade looks dark purple in natural light, more faded black in artificial light.

DRIFTWOOD: Pale, weathered beige grey. Distinctly warm.

BUTTE: A foxy rust hue like iron-rich soils — leans redder in Peerie and more orange in Arbor.

FLEET: Classic pea-coat navy. Darker in Peerie than it is in Arbor.

BURNISHED: Sophisticated olive-brown, like a new pair of Italian leather shoes.

HAMMOCK: Natural sheep's white, warm and creamy.

CAROB: Velvety taupe with both warm and cool pigments. Brighter in Peerie, muted in Arbor.

HERON: A cool mid-grey like rain clouds.

COBBLER: A jammy reddish purple like blackberry pie.

HUMPBACK: A complex dark grey faintly warmed with brown.

CRUMB: Tawny, golden brown like lion's hide.

KETTLE: Labrador black, pure and basic.

KLIMT: The rich ochre gold of willow leaves in autumn. Inspired by the paintings of Gustav Klimt's "golden phase."

RAINIER: A glacial, shaded, serene blue, named for Washington's tallest peak.

LOAM: The lively, rich brown of drinking chocolate.

SASHIKO: Saturated natural indigo, inspired by Japanese textiles.

LOVAT: The muted blue-green of an old Scottish tweed suit.

SEAGLASS: Pale mint, ocean tumbled flotsam.

MESA: The rosy pink of unfired terra cotta.

SPRUCE: The hazy blue green of a misty forest, close kin to Lovat but darker in hue.

NORWAY: Sea ice. This palest blue is shaded with a wash of grey.

THAW: Cool, silvery white.

PORTER: Faded black denim, a lived-in alternative to true black.

TINCTURE: Grassy olive oil, greener and more vivid than Klimt.

TREEHOUSE: A saturated spruce green that leans toward teal.
