Nicole Kidman Hosts Party as Hollywood and Sports Stars Collide; Billy Porter Performs 'A Star Is Born' Hit

PARTY: Gold Meets Golden

PLAYERS: A mix of Hollywood A-listers including Nicole Kidman, Amy Adams, Jessica Chastain, Octavia Spencer, Ryan Murphy, Edgar Ramirez and Patricia Clarkson, came together with Olympic athletes for the celebration, with swimmer Missy Franklin, figure skaters Michelle Kwan and Adam Rippon, and gymnast Nastia Liukin. Other stars at the brunch party — which benefited Angel Sports, an organization that supports young disabled athletes in their journey to becoming Paralympians — were Golden Globe nominees Billy Porter (Pose) and Mark Ronson (for co-writing A Star Is Born's "Shallow"), along with Joe Alwyn, Edgar Ramirez, Matt Bomer, Chrissy Metz, Danielle Macdonald and Tophér Grace.

PLACE: The House on Sunset

SERVED: Bite-size grilled cheese sandwiches with prosciutto, crab wontons, chicken and biscuits, quinoa cups and caviar, all served within sight of a sparkling wine tower. The dessert table embraced the golden theme, with gold-dipped popcorn, cookies and candies and an ice cream bar with golden toppings. Guests sipped specialty cocktails by ever-hot spirits brand Casamigos.

INSIDE DISH: Nicole Kidman, who served as host for the event, arrived on the gold carpet and wished reporters a happy new year. As she went to go inside, a man standing outside in a black beanie and glasses pulled both off and said, "Bet you didn't recognize me!" The man was, it turned out, an incognito Ryan Murphy, and the two quickly embraced.

Octavia Spencer arrived wearing an Auburn Tigers T-shirt, and as an alum of the college, she told reporters its college football team was her favorite thing in all of sports.

Danielle Macdonald, star of Netflix's Dumplin' and Bird Box, told THR that she hopes to see Blackkkkklansman take home best drama at the Golden Globes: "That movie just had me shaken up; I love that movie," she said.

Billy Porter performed a rendition of A Star Is Born's hit "Shallow" at the event, while Mark Ronson, who co-wrote the song with Lady Gaga, looked on. "I loved A Star Is Born and in particular I loved this song because it's so special in terms of what it says about love and what it says about true love and what it says about the kind of love that is unexplainable. I love it," Porter told THR ahead of his performance.

'Pose' Star Billy Porter Thinks Kevin Hart Should Still Host the Oscars

By MARDEAUX SIPPILL

Now playing Kevin Hart says 'There's... Celebrities who attended the sixth annual Gold Meets Golden brunch on Saturday weighed in on whether or not Kevin Hart should have a second chance at hosting the Oscars. The comedian was set to host the Academy Awards, but stepped down after controversy ensued over homophobic jokes he made years ago.

"Pose" star Billy Porter told Variety he thinks Hart should still emcee this year's ceremony.

"He's a great talent, and he would be wonderful hosting the Oscars," Porter said of Hart, despite Porter's earlier comments saying the comedian "crossed a line."

Nicole Kidman and former Olympian Nadia Comaneci co-hosted the Gold Meets Golden event, held at the House on Sunset in Los Angeles. The charitable event is designed to bring together Hollywood elite and all-star athletes on the eve of the Golden Globes. This year's proceeds, including a $50,000 donation from Gold Meets Golden, will benefit Angel City Sports, an organization that helps disabled youth athletes in training for the Paralympic Games.

Olympic Stars and Hollywood Celebs Talk Points & Miles at TPG Golden Globes Charity Event

It was all about going for the gold at Saturday's "Gold Meets Golden" charity event, sponsored by TPG. The event, which takes place each year ahead of the annual Golden Globe Awards, connects "the worlds of Hollywood and sport" in the name of raising money for Angel City Sports, the leading the Paralympic movement in Southern California creating sports opportunities for anyone with a physical disability, and TPG was there to work the red carpet to find out some of our favorite stars' best travel advice.

The 5th Annual "Gold Meets Golden" brunch at The House on Sunset on January 5, 2019 in West Hollywood, California. (Photo by Philip Fierstone/Getty Images for Gold Meets Golden)

The star-studded event brings together "Hollywood entertainers, professional athletes, medal-winning Olympians and enthusiastic partners to generate awareness and support for sports-related causes." We're talking Amy Adams, Mark Ronson, Jessica Chastain, Octavia Spencer, Nadia Comaneci, Adam Rippon (Oh, and you know, the one and only Nicole Kidman, NBD.)

For TPG, sponsoring the event was a "no-brainer." "Even though it's about entertainment and sports, travel is what connects them," says Kelly. Not to mention the donation TPG will be making to the Angel City Sports Foundation. "We're all about giving at The Points Guy," adds Kelly. "It's cool to be part of such an uplifting event."

Nastia Liukin, Five-Time Olympic Medalist in Gymnastics

"I'm definitely a points person. Ames, that's my thing," says Liukin. While the Beijing Olympics will always have a special place in the athlete's heart, find out why she's even more excited for the 2020 Summer Games in US.

Michelle Kwan, Two-Time Olympic Medalist in Figure Skating

"Over the years, if I had been smarter with my points... then I would have been able to save up points that I could take my family on vacation," says Kwan. Watch the clip below to find out her most lightning plane experience ever, which involved sitting next to actress Diane Lane.

Billy Porter, Actor and Golden Globe nominee for the FX drama "Pose"

We'll let Porter tell you for himself about his near-death experience taking off on the runway in Puerto Plata, Dominican Republic.

Gold Meets Golden Raises $50,000 for Angel City Games Charity

WEST HOLLYWOOD, CA— JANUARY 05: Asher Loren (L) and Carlos Ramirez attend "the 6th Annual" "Gold Meets Golden" Brunch, hosted by Nicole Kilman and Nadia Comaneci and presented by Coca-Cola at The House on Sunset on January 5, 2019 in West Hollywood, California. (Photos by Philly Persons/Getty Images for Gold Meets Golden)

Gold Meets Golden raised $50,000 for Angel City Games, a charity that creates sports programs for anyone with physical disabilities.

It's officially Award Season in Los Angeles and the city is buzzing with excitement. Celebrities begin celebrating shortly after the New Year at parties thrown in their honor at LA's swankiest locations. Famous faces are everywhere mingling, picking up free swag and enjoying the incredible events—which are always a good time! But, some like Gold Meets Golden are taking the opportunity to raise awareness for charitable causes.

Gold Meets Golden is an annual brunch, which brings together Hollywood's elite with top athletes to celebrate sports and entertainment. As the longest continuous corporate partner of the Olympic Games, "Gold Meets Golden 6" was refreshed by The Coca-Cola Company, and produced and founded by CW3PB's Charley Cullen Walters and Cinema Magazine's Scott Orlin.

Team USA

This past Saturday nearly 20 Team USA athletes attended the 8th Annual Gold Meets Golden event, and some even attended the Golden Globe Awards the following night. Gold Meets Golden is a star-studded event that brings together Hollywood entertainers, professional athletes and Olympians to generate awareness and support for sports-related causes.

The event was held prior to Sunday night's Golden Globe Awards, and was hosted by none other than Academy Award- and Golden Globe-winning actress Nicole Kidman. Actresses Chrissy Metz and Patricia Clarkson were also among those from the entertainment world who made appearances.

There's no denying that Team USA was dressed to impress.

From the podium to the red carpet, here are a few of our favorite social media posts from the event.

EXCLUSIVE

A gathering of A-list celebs and top-notch athletes got an early Golden Globes appetizer, and there's nothing shallow about it ... except the name of the song.

"Pose" star Billy Porter performed the Golden-Globe nominated hit, "Shallow," at the Gold Meets Golden event Saturday at The House on Sunset in Weho. Mark Ronson -- who co-wrote the track with Lady Gaga and others for "A Star Is Born" -- introduced him.

The midday gala brings celebrity actors and entertainers together with medal-winning Olympians to celebrate awards season and raise awareness and support for sports-related causes.

This year's attendees included Nicole Kidman -- seen here snuggling a pic with Michelle Wan and Paralympic medalists Amy Purdy and Tatyana McFadden -- Jessica Chastain, Edgar Ramirez, Amy Adams, Matt Bomer, Octavia Spencer, Jenna Dewan, Adam Rippen, Joe Alwyn and many more.

BTW ... Porter's also nominated for a Golden Globe for Best Performance by an Actor in a TV Series for "Pose." The show's Sunday night.

Good luck!

More gold, less problems!

As excitement continues to build for the 2019 Golden Globes, Hollywood's biggest stars are beginning to celebrate at a variety of parties in town.

It certainly was the case for figure skater Adam Rippon who headed to Gold Meets Golden where Olympic athletes and Golden Globe nominees came together for a special brunch.

"Everyone has been so nice. It's a great way to kind of combine my two worlds and have them collide," Adam shared with E! News exclusively. "I have so many of my friends from sports here today and also a lot of other people I've met last year through the entertainment world so it's been really great to reconnect with all those people."

One special friend was Nicole Kidman who hosted the event sponsored by Coca Cola and Smartwater. As soon as the Big Little Lies star spotted Adam inside the venue, she stopped for a hug and posed for photos.

Golden Globes: Celebs Party Hard, Win or Lose

76TH ANNUAL GOLDEN GLOBES Behind the Scenes ... CELEBS PARTY HARD, WIN OR LOSE!!!

by TMZ Staff

Tyler Perry said it best at the 76th annual Golden Globes when he confessed the celebs in the room were just as drunk as they seem on TV – and the pics of them partying are even more proof.

Okay, no one's puking at their table – but people like Penelope Cruz, Ricky Martin, Regina King, Adam Driver, Lady Gaga and Amy Adams were definitely feeling good. Check out the gallery to see Dax Shepard and Kristen Bell, and Denzel Washington and Spike Lee having a blast.

It's traditionally the best part of the Golden Globes – the fact that even if you aren't nominated, or don't win a Globe, it's just a cool party – and you can see that in these shots.

And yes, we got the Dude himself, Jeff Bridges – who won the Cecil B. DeMille award – toasting his big night with the other dude ... Sam Elliott. Awesome!

Jenna Dewan looked absolutely flawless and happy on Jan. 5 when she stepped out to attend the Gold Meets Golden Party in a light purple dress with a plunging neckline.

Jenna Dewan, 38, proved she's already taking on 2019 with beauty and grace when she attended the Gold Meets Golden Party in Los Angeles on Jan. 5 in a flowing light purple dress with a red geometric pattern and a sexy plunging neckline. The actress posed on the carpet of the pre-Golden Globe Awards event and couldn't help but smile as she showed off her stunning look. She also accessorized the look with Ruwaya jewelry!

In addition to looking fantastic, Jenna seems to be doing amazing! An eyewitness EXCLUSIVELY told HollywoodLife that the mother-of-one was hanging out with BFF Emanuelle Chriqui at the party and even told someone she was doing "really great". With a successful career and a new year, we can see why she would feel that way, and we're thrilled for her!

6th Anniversary "Gold Meets Golden" Event Shines Bright And Raises $50,000 For Angel City Games Charity, Helping Foster Future Paralympians

Nicole Kidman and Nadia Comaneci's Annual Brunch Soiree was joined by Jessica Chastain, Chrissy Metz, Matt Bomer, Topher Grace, Octavia Spencer, Amy Adams, Patricia Clarkson, Ryan Murphy, Billy Porter, Michelle Yeoh, Mark Ronson and Joe Alwyn; Who Welcomed Athletes, Olympians and Paralympians Michelle Kwan, Adam Rippon, Candace Cable, Carl Lewis, Connor Fields, Edwin Moses, Akuoma Omeoga, Ngozi Onwumere, Amy Purdy, Danell Leyva, David Boudia, John Naber, Jordan Burroughs, Jordyn Wieber, Katie Uhlaender, Mac Bohannon, Madison Kocian, Alex & Maia Shibutani, Meryl Davis, Mirai Nagasu, Nasita Liukin, Rashad Jennings and Tatyana McFadden.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- On Saturday January 5, 2019, Hollywood welcomed some of the world's greatest athletes to celebrate their most Golden weekend. "Gold Meets Golden 6" was refreshed by The Coca-Cola Company, and produced and founded by CW3PR's Charley Cullen Walters and Cinema Magazine's Scott Orin. The brunch took place at the House on Sunset

With the recent announcement of the Games' triumphant return to Los Angeles in 2028, Hollywood has been handed a fresh dose of Olympic Fever. While last year's 'GMG' celebrated the past, the 2019 event looked at the future by celebrating Youth in Sports, benefiting Angel City Sports. A $50,000 check was presented by "The Points Guy", Brian Kelly, who surprised the crowd by doubling the donation on stage. Gold Meets Golden 6 also spotlighted The Foundation for Global Sports Development, a leader in the sports community that delivers and supports initiatives that promote fair play, education, and the physical and developmental benefits of sports for youth around the world.

The Coca-Cola Company unveiled new Olympic merchandise as it looks toward the next Tokyo 2020 Olympic, and featured golden items related to the new sports that will debut at these Games. Attendees received a first look at the new LAX Private Suite program from United Airlines, the official travel partner for Gold Meets Golden and also a proud sponsor of TeamUSA. Renowned J Vineyards & Winery Michelin-star Chef Carl Shelton provided a gold-medal menu of Brunch libations, and a gold signature sparkling wine coupe tower. Discovery Destinations who invite everyone to climb, zip, bike and more in their Discovery Adventure Parks worldwide celebrated the new Olympic event of Sports Climbing with "The Climb," a state-of-the-art projection-mapped, mixed-reality photo op. The experience was powered by Farbound, the leader in Gamified Real-Life Experiences. Bulletproof, an official partner of the U.S. Ski & Snowboard team, provided guests with many healthy products, and offered their signature Oxygen Bar experience where guests indulged in essential oil scented oxygen to feel refreshed, full of energy and detoxified. Popular travel website "The Points Guy" and their founder Brian Kelly shared tips and tricks on how to maximize travel experiences and help future Olympic-bound passengers obtain gold status and beyond in the age of Golden travel. Cupcake Supplier Sprinkles displayed some mini "Bowtie and Gold Medal" cupcakes that perfectly fit the event theme.

“How I engage celebrities and athletes to use their platform to help disabled children”, With Charley Cullen Walters Of Gold Meets Golden

I had the pleasure of interviewing Charley Cullen Walters, head of CW3PR and the co-founder and organizer of “Gold Meets Golden”, along with Cinema Magazine’s Scott Orlin. On Saturday January 5, 2019, Los Angeles welcomed some of the greatest athletes to celebrate Hollywood’s most Golden weekend. As the longest continuous corporate partner of the Olympic Games, “Gold Meets Golden 6” was refreshed by The Coca-Cola Company. The concept for the daytime brunch began when athletes at the London 2012 Olympic Games were surprised by shout-outs from their favorite Hollywood celebrities, and several of those athletes were invited to Hollywood Awards season. The outcome was “Gold Meets Golden”—a chance for Gold Medalists and other athletes to engage with some of the Entertainment Industry’s best award nominees, and realize how much they inspire one another. The brunch took place at the House on Sunset. With the recent announcement of the Games’ triumphant return to Los Angeles in 2028, Hollywood has been handed a fresh dose of Olympic Fever. While last year’s Gold Meets Golden celebrated the past, the 2019 event looked at the future by celebrating Youth in Sports. The 6th Annual event benefited Angel City Sports, a leading Paralympic organization in California, with a Friday panel of current, past and future adaptive athletes. A $50,000 check was also presented by “The Points Guy”. The charity was Founded in June 2013 when Clayton and his son Ezra Frech were on the track at the Endeavor Games in Oklahoma City and asked the question, “Why do we need to come to torreado alley to run, jump, and throw things? Why aren’t there more programs in Southern California?” Shortly after, Angel City Sports was founded with a mission of creating sports opportunities for anyone with a physical disability. Gold Meets Golden 6 also spotlighted The Foundation for Global Sports Development a leader in the sports community that delivers and supports initiatives that promotes fair play, education, and the physical and developmental benefits of sports for youth around the world. Their division Sidewinder Films promotes this mission to a broader audience through groundbreaking film and documentaries.

Golden Globes Weekend Takes Over Hollywood

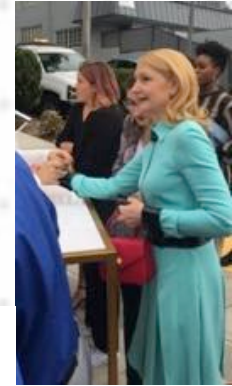

Beverly Hills, CA (The Hollywood Times) 1/6/19 - Globes weekend took over the headquarters of the entertainment industry on Saturday, and THT editors were there to capture the action. The Gold Meets Golden event was at the forefront of the action. Some of the world's greatest athletes met up with Hollywood's biggest actors for the bash to end all at The House on Sunset ahead of the actual awards. Those will be held tonight in Beverly Hills, and hosted by the unlikely pairing of Sandra Oh and Andy Samberg.

The guest list for Gold Meets Golden was truly overwhelming, even by industry standards. Nicole Kidman, Jessica Chastain, Amy Adams, Michelle Kwan, Greg Louganis, Mark Ronson, Chrissy Metz, Nadia Comăneci, Matt Bomer, Adam Rippon, Bryan Fogel, and Patricia Clarkson were among the attendees.

Matt Bomer being his handsome and usual cool self arriving at Gold Meets Golden

The 6th annual event was sponsored by the Coca-Cola Company and Angel City Sports, (a top Paralympic organization in California), and produced by CW3PR's Charley Cullen Walters, and Cinema Magazine's Scott Orlin. The concept was born out of practicality—in 2012, athletes at the London Olympic Games were shocked to discover their favorite Hollywood celebrities shouting out to them.

"He's a great talent, and he would be wonderful hosting the Oscars," Porter told Variety on Saturday during the sixth annual Gold Meets Golden brunch. This a turn from last December, when he slammed both Hart and comedian D.L. Hughley for defending him.

"I say to Kevin Hart, and I say to D.L. Hughley, I say to those people who think that they don't need to apologize for st and dig their heels in their toxic masculinity: But you want your rights," Porter said during an interview with Consequence of Sound. "You want people to stop shooting your children in the back? But yet still, you turn around and oppress other people the same way you're being oppressed. Fk that. Fk you. We're done."

DeGeneres also expressed her support for Hart during their talk on her show. But a few other personalities, like CNN's Don Lemon, remained critical.

"Kevin, if anything, this is the time to hear other people out," Lemon said during his Friday broadcast. "To understand why they might have been offended."
