DECCAN CHRONICLE

When an Indian designer who has designed for the likes of Nicole Kidman, Megan Fox and the Royal Family in Marrakesh visits town, everyone wants to hear about his altercation with celebrity-hood. Jewellery couturier Pavan Anand of Dagmar whose Casablanca Hoop earrings were featured in the Oprah magazine shares his starry tales, "The stars genuinely enjoy the ornate and Indian tone. They find my pieces opulent and quirky at the same time. My collection is extremely Western and contemporary too. The inspirations maybe from antiquity, but the final product is extremely provocative and conducive to today's modern traveller. My clients are deeply intrigued by the fact that I am a qualified architect who diversified into jewellery couture."
