Cocking a snook to unrealistic realty trends, luxury homes in the city's flanks continue to attract the well-heeled. And the latest to join the 'boom' in the niche segment is sharp-suited jewellery designer Pavan Anand and Toronto-based Sushma Kilachand. On the anvil: a bunch of designer villas in Alibaug. For Anand, it marks a return to the profession of his early years - architecture - which he had quit to pursue his passion. He is tight-lipped about the project, but from what we hear, it has some of SoBo's familiar names on the list.
