Typically, dogs are lactose intolerant. They share similar symptoms to people who have this condition. Eating foods like milk, cheese and ice cream can lead to a variety of stomach issues.

“Love Can Kill”

Don't feed your dogs anything without fully understanding the repercussions of what is being given as a treat. We all want to show our pets how much we love them, but slipping treats off your plate can be dangerous. No matter how careful you are, your dog might find and swallow something they shouldn't. Keep the numbers to your local veterinarian, emergency clinic and the ASPCA Animal Poison Control center (888) 426-4435
