Curated Diverse Children's Book Boxes

This sweet book details one child's experience with the loss of a friend and the way she finds happiness in the little things that live on in her memory and the world around her.

- Can you think of a time when you've missed someone? How did you feel?
- The main character starts to notice a lot of yellow in the world that reminds her of Loonie. What colors or other things do you see that remind you of your friends and family?
