

TATTLER®

WATCHES & JEWELLERY GUIDE 2022

Grape earrings, £1,125; grape ring, £995, both GEORG JENSEN

Georg Jensen

The Danish jeweller's grape-shaped ornaments of the 1920s return in all their fruitful glory. The Moonlight Grapes collection is now resplendent in 18-carat gold as well as silver – with diamonds for that extra sparkle.

David Morris

Sixty years after David Morris first erupted onto the jewellery scene, the brand releases six new marvels in honour of each decade of the house. From capturing the spirit of the '60s with the swirling Ribbon necklace, to getting tied up in the '90s with the Purity choker, David Morris revisits the moments that made him a master.

Ribbon necklace, POA, DAVID MORRIS

Nadine Ghosn

The building blocks of life have never been so chic. Pop-culture jeweller extraordinaire, Nadine Ghosn has turned her gem-encrusted hand to a familiar motif for her latest collection: the building block. Once stacked by curious children on the nursery-school floor, the trusty brick is encased in sapphire, jade and 18-carat gold – poised to perfection for eccentric elegance. 'This collection reminds us that any of life's challenges can be overcome – step by step, block by block,' says Ghosn.

Bon Bon Block ring, £5,657, NADINE GHOSN

Swarovski

Swarovski is bringing it back to basics – that's delightfully dazzling basics. 'As fundamental to the wardrobe as the white T', according to the house, the new Millenia collection adds a bright, bold and youthful appeal to classic crystal jewellery. Vivid hues emblazon bracelets, necklaces and earrings throughout the eye-catching line, providing an instant playful panache to any ensemble.

Millenia bracelet, £380, SWAROVSKI

886 by The Royal Mint

Britain's oldest company and the official maker of all the UK's coins is owned by His Majesty's Treasury and has been supplying the country since 886 AD. Now, under the creative direction of designer Dominic Jones, The Royal Mint introduces fine jewellery. Created with sustainability in mind, the debut collection features accessories made in the UK from gold recovered from electronic waste.

Yellow gold hoops, £2,825, 886 BY THE ROYAL MINT

Zouk rainbow earrings, £7,690, ROBINSON PELHAM

Robinson Pelham

Celebrating a quarter of a century, Robinson Pelham launches a series of collections and limited editions for its 25th birthday. From updated classics to complete new creations, the much-loved house is marking the occasion in serious style. As worn by both the Princess of Wales and her sister, Pippa Middleton, on their wedding days, Robinson Pelham certainly has the royal stamp of approval when it comes to event dressing, and these latest additions are sure to add a touch of regal glamour to any ensemble. Embrace the beauty of brilliant British design with its bright, bold and luxuriously refined pieces. □