To whom it may concern,

Mr. Harris has presented a novel feeding system for brachycephalic dogs. This type of dog has trouble getting the food out of the bowl. Often, they end up with food encrusted on their muzzle. Mr. Harris' idea is great! He provided a demonstration for us using his own French Bulldog. She managed to eat all the kibble with little effort and no mess.

Given the popularity of brachycephalic breeds and crosses of, I feel this new feed bowl has merit in the market place.
