

Design matters

A selection of new products and ideas to complete your project

A twist in the tale

His steam-bent-wood lighting is instantly recognisable; now Tom Raffield has designed a collection of home accessories to match. Slim ash shelves and coat hooks sit alongside circular mirrors that make great hallway solutions. Luslow is a round mirror suspended from a leather strap, £295, in brown, black or tan, which looks good on its own or grouped. The six-peg Burgh coat hook, £225, uses brass pegs and a simple central turn to add interest; Twist, £325, combines three pegs with a small shelf. The circular Houseel shelf, £325, can be combined with a mirror, £375, to save space in cloakrooms. (tomraffield.com)

Go with the Flo

The work of Australian textile designer Florence Broadhurst is being revived in the UK. When she died in 1977, Florence left an archive of more than 500 designs, including bold floral and geometric patterns, with influences drawn from the Far East. The collection includes wallpapers, rugs, cushions and lampshades. Green Egrets wallpaper, Florence Broadhurst, £120. (florencebroadhurst.com)

With indoor air quality being taken increasingly seriously, Ikea has introduced air-purifying curtains. A mineral-based surface treatment allows the sheer fabric, made from recycled plastic bottles, to break down indoor pollutants by reacting with natural light. Gunrid, 250x145cm, pair, £25. (ikea.com)

Upside-down you're turning me

Following the success of its large reversible vases, Block Design has brought out a mini version that's perfect for holding a single stem. Just 65mm in diameter and 100mm high, it will help brighten any table or windowsill. The glass vases come in pink, grey, blue and green and cost £21 each. (blockdesign.co.uk)

Quick and easy

A new flat-plack furniture company has made its debut. Swyft's range is designed for speed and ease of assembly, with components that slot together without the need for tools or more than one person. Delivered in sections, the furniture is ideal if narrow doorways are an issue. Model O1 includes a boxy two-seat sofa, £895, a three-seat sofa, £995, and an armchair, £595, all with memory-foam cushions and wooden legs. (swyftthome.com) >>

